Magnetawan split over selection method of reeve

It got to the point that Almaguin Highlands OPP were called in to ask some people, who did not settle down to leave the chamber.

"It was tense, it wasn't very nice," said Ms. Johnston.

She continued to say that Mr. Dunnett handled the situation very well.

Mr. Dunnett was unavailable for comment. This will be his third term in office as reeve.

Dawn Scott is the owner of the Downtown General Store in Magnetawan. She feels that the Township went about filling the position badly and the event split the community.

"Well, personally I think council did it the wrong way," said Ms. Scott. "They shouldn't have taken applications, they should have held a by-election.

They've made their decision now, we have to live with it for the next three years. The event caused hard feelings in the community."

The Magnetawan Ratepayers Association feels the re-instatement of Mr. Dunnett is not a good move for the people of the Township.

"They're not happy, because Mr. Dunnett is not for the people," said association secretary Nancy Emery.

Petition

The association collected a petition with about 600 names, and sent 75 emails to each councillor protesting the method that was used to find a replacement reeve.

While looking for a new reeve, council and the advisory committee had a set criteria including, municipal experience, business experience, related education and community volunteer.

It's not a pleasure cruise

On January 31, the Parry Sound Fire Department participated in ice water rescue training at the Coast Guard base in Parry Sound. Firefighter Jamie Tranter, bottom, is being 'rescued' by firefighter John Forbes, top, using a Rescue Life pontoon boat, specially designed for ice rescue.

JUST WHAT THEY SAID

Change of leadership

The change in Liberal leadership was meant, in part, to turn the page on the low ethical standard set by Mr. Chrétien. Yet Mr. Martin cannot credibly claim his government represents a fresh start if he has similarly fudged the rules, particularly when he has made higher ethical standards a cornerstone of his administration. It is not too late to clear up this matter. Mr. Martin correctly shut down the much maligned sponsorship program. He would do well to follow suit with TPC and other wasteful welfare schemes.

The Prime Minister must press CSL to pay back $10.3 million in government subsidies the company received, and ensure the $4.9 million loan is repaid to Ottawa along with any other grants and contributions the auditor might discover. The $15.2 million represents the federal income tax paid by about 2,800 Canadian taxpayers.

In addition, he must release the entire TPC file on Canadian Shipbuilding and Engineering Ltd., including e-mail and other correspondence between TPC officials and members of parliament and their staff. Mr. Martin should remember that transparency is his friend.

(John Williamson is a Federal Director with the Canadian Taxpayers Federation.)
